matters are not as smooth as could be desired between the offices of the field marshal commanding the army and the secretary of war. I hear on very excellent authority that great friction exists between Lord Roberts and Sir William St. John Broderick, secretary for war. In fact, I am told, that the affair has reached such a crisis that Field Marshal Roberts' reign as commander-in-chief of the British army may terminate very suddenly.DEPUTY MARSHAL LA RUE HERE

NOW IN.CONFEDERATE RE-UNION AT MEMPHIS.As Memphis is very near to Paducah it may be that many enthusiastic ex-Confederates are planning to be on hand at the big reunion there in May.
It is very probable, too, that the United Daughters of Confederacy here will send delegates. At any rate there is much interest being felt in the occasion, and the following clipped from the New Orleans Times-Democrat may prove pleasant reading:
Miss Helen Gray, the well known Southern journalist, writes from Memphis:
"Just now the important topic of conversation in Memphis is the forthcoming reunion of Confederate veterans. Judging by the amount of enthusiasm displayed by both veterans and Daughters the indications are that this will be one of the largest reunions ever held in the south. Memphis intends living up to the reputation she has earned as one of the most progressive cities in the Union.
Besides an old-fashioned barbecue and numerous receptions, the mem-bers will be treated to a delightful river trip. The picturesque banks of the Mississippi are full of romance, and the imaginative mind as it dwells upon the days that are past, can weave many a plot that had its development here.
"Another attractive entertainment will be the 'Southern Cross Drill,' composed by Lieut. Dugan of South Carolina while a prisoner of war at Johnston's Island in 1864. Two veterans will participate on this occasion who in their youth were captives on this island and took part there on a similar occasion.
"The Daughters have rented an entire floor in the woman's building, which they purpose having as a place of rendezvous for their visitors.
Luncheon will be served there every day, and there will be rest rooms for those who grow weary.
"One very sincere Daughter, Mrs.
D. C. Jones, who made coffee out of sweet potatoes during the war, showed us the flag of the Sixteenth and Twenty-fifth Louisiana regiments, which was carried by her father, Col. Daniel Gober, in battle.
After the battle of Chickamauga, the loss of life being so great, the Sixteenth and Twenty-fifth consolidated.
Mrs. Jones will be glad to commu-cate with any of the survivors of these regiments of whom whereabouts she can learn. Her address is 1440 Madison avenue, Memphis, Tenn. She is willing to lend the flag and hopes arrangements can be made for the members to march in the parade in a body.
The most important woman's organization in Memphis is the Nineteenth Century club, which has a membership of nearly 400. A visit to the large three story double building of the club gives an idea of its progressive spirit. On the walls of the lecture room may be seen autograph pictures of Joseph Jefferson and James Whitcomb Riley. Other visitors who have entertained the club are Thomas Nelson Page, Frank Hopkinson Smith, Henry George, Stepiak, the Russian exile; 'Jennie June,' and Will Allen Dromgoole. Another organization worthy of mention is the 'Beethoven club, over which presides Mrs. Napoleon Hill. The club has handsome quarters in the Woman's Building, which is owned by its president.
"This building is not philanthropic, as its designation would lead one to suppose. Its rooms are rented only to women as classrooms, and these ladies seem to be of the artistic type, most charmingly have they fitted them up. In the building is a library and concert hall.
"A conspicuous figure among the veterans here is Mr. John Overton, whose grandfather was the founder of Memphis, and a law partner and devoted friend of Andrew Jackson.
"Another veteran is Judge L. B.The Widow Rhinoceros has her horn carved in the likeness of her sainted husband that his dear form may ever be before her eyes.—Scribner's.McFarland, who owns the finest stock farm in the vicinity, where he raises trotting horses and Shetland ponies.

cently purchased lands for two large hammer and knocked her in the head three times. She was killed almost instantly.

Ritter fled and came to Kentucky to escape arrest. He secured work near Smithland, but was soon located.
He is about the toughest looking specimen ever seen here, and is halfwitted. He was sullen and refused to have anything to say to anyone.
A reward of $300 was offered for his capture, $200 by the state and $100 by the county.JEALOUS CONSTABLE KILLED HIS WIFE AND BLEW OUT HIS OWN BRAINS.San Antonio, Tex., May 6.—A special from Hebbronville, Tex., says Mannell Mees, a constable at Hebbronville, killed his wife, and then committed suicide by blowing his own brains out. A .38-calibre pistol was used.
Jealousy is supposed to have been the cause. There were no eye-witness-
